Early Life and Background

Childhood and Family Roots

Vivien Leigh was born Vivian Mary Hartley on November 5, 1913, in Darjeeling, India, where her father, Ernest Hartley, was a British civil servant stationed in the British Raj. Her mother, Gertrude, was a former actress who fostered her daughter's early interest in the performing arts.

The Leigh family's roots were deeply British, with a lineage that emphasized social standing and cultural refinement. After her father's death when Vivien was just five, her family returned to England, settling in the affluent suburbs of London. These early years were marked by a mix of privilege and instability, shaping Leigh's resilience and ambition.

Vivien Leigh attended a series of schools, including the all-female Saint Paul's Girls' School in London, where her talent in dramatics became evident. She was a bright student, passionate about literature and the arts, but also known for her emotional sensitivity—a trait that would later influence her acting style.
